

Aimee Line

Secondary English Testimonials

A note about my testimonials: my writing classes are no magic bullet. Success stories simply prove that hard work pays off. When students come to class consistently, follow the syllabus, complete all assignments, and resubmit their work when necessary, growth due to their own efforts is inevitable.

Because my daughter took Mrs. Line's writing classes for two years, she was able to CLEP out of introductory writing classes in college altogether. Aimee's teaching saved us over a thousand dollars!

My son is autistic and struggles with auditory processing disorder. We didn't know how he would do in a traditional classroom setting, let alone in writing. But it is amazing how far he has come. He is now writing high school essays with confidence, and we can see that because of Aimee's classes, he will be able to go on to college. We can't express how thankful we are for Aimee's teaching!

ALL my kids have received As in their college writing after taking Aimee's classes. Her classes are higher in quality than the Comp I and Comp II classes at [the local] colleges. Most importantly, she is so gifted in conveying a solid Christian worldview, that having her for years is very important for the student's worldview formation.

I want to thank Mrs. Line for her excellent teaching. I took two years of Worldview Writing with her at RISE. It has prepared me well for college writing classes. Currently I am a dual-enrolled high school senior and taking Composition I as part of Liberty University's dual enrollment program; I am getting an A+ so far. Additionally, thanks to Mrs. Line's instruction, I was able to win an essay scholarship contest, and have achieved a perfect score on the writing sections of both the ACT and the SAT and the reading section of the ACT.

I am so thankful for Aimee Line's Worldview Writing class as well as her Fundamentals of Writing. Both of these classes have set my children up for success at FSW. The Fundamentals of Writing course has taught them MLA format and how to properly write a variety of different types of papers with excellence. This class has led them to receive A's on countless essays and research papers at the college level that I know I would not have been able to equip them for on my own. Aimee's Worldview Writing class has prepared them to navigate the worldly waters. They have learned how to discern the multiple different worldviews and hold them up to a Biblical Worldview. I am convinced that these classes have readied their hearts and their minds for collegiate courses anywhere.

My son, who hated to write before going to RISE, aced his first college Composition course because Mrs. Line prepared him so well. Mrs. Line taught him how to create parenthetical citations and Works Cited pages, so my son didn't have to waste time in college figuring out how to do those things that professors are so picky about. My son's professor was so impressed! Mrs. Line truly prepares students for the rigors of college writing.

I have thoroughly enjoyed having Aimee work with my three teenage boys as they journey through high school English territory. My desire to see them become capable writers and to look at things from a Christian world view creates a bright future for them, not just in "English" type things, but dealing with a faltering world and finding Truth. I love what Aimee brings to the table as we work together to see them succeed and grow.

I think as a homeschooling Mom, you are sure you fail in most areas, but as we work together, I find that we are making an impact that will be lifelong! I LOVE THAT! Aimee reinforces that what we do at home for school is good, and when it is off track, she helps me get back on the track.

I have really enjoyed Aimee Line's courses. I think she does a really great job and has prepared both of my children well for college. My son took an English class in [another program] this year, but I prefer Mrs. Line's for sure.

I learned so much in Mrs. Line's classes. I've gained knowledge that will help me in my walk with Christ. She has been patient and willing to help me learn and grow to be my best. I enjoyed everything from the essays to the quizzes. She inspired much creativity in me and a love for writing. . . . I hope that one day I will be able to use my writing skills in my professional life as well, perhaps even to write a book. She has been the most wonderful teacher, and I am grateful that I was blessed to be under her direction at RISE.

Mrs. Line's class was challenging but enjoyable for my daughter. I could have taught her at home, but Mrs. Line's reputation was so favorable amongst my friends, I decided to have my daughter enroll in her class. I am so thankful that I did. Mrs. Line fostered a desire in my daughter to appreciate writing and to write well. With each paper, my daughter wanted to improve on the last paper. My daughter and I look forward to next year when my daughter will take Worldview Writing.

My daughter and I are so thankful for Mrs. Line. My daughter was always challenged when it came to school; we had many painful years with lots of tears and my daughter was very down on herself. Lately, she has decided to go on to college. Last week she took her PERT test for college entrance, and the one area she did well enough not to need to take a remedial class in was writing!! We credit this to the way Mrs. Line approaches teaching her kids!

Mrs. Line has a true gift, and it shows when our kids are put to the test. We could not have asked for a better teacher to have worked with our daughter through her most difficult years. Mrs. Line makes a difference with our kids!

My son never enjoyed writing, and as a homeschool mom I was concerned what this would mean to his future; with the help of Aimee Line, that changed. Mrs. Line's ability to take a boy who detested writing assignments, to a boy who can write a 500-word essay with ease and joy, is incredible. He will soon be a high school junior and can write with confidence because of having been taught by Aimee Line.

Mrs. Line's encouragement to my daughter in writing has built up her confidence in reading, writing in her quiet time, and writing letters to loved ones that God presses on her heart. Teaching writing is truly Mrs. Line's ministry! Also, her record keeping has made the grading process so easy for me!

Aimee Line is a blessing to young adults learning to write beginning essays, fictional works, and literary analysis. My daughter has always been creative and enjoyed writing, but through Mrs. Line's encouragement and guidance, my daughter has excelled this year in her writing. Mrs. Line guided the class on basic essay composition and fictional writing, while working through the 20 Common Grammar and Usage Errors. The second half of the year focused on Introduction to Literary Analysis. Mrs. Line led the class through characterization, plot, annotation, etc., of individual literature pieces so my daughter was able to write a persuasive literary analysis of assigned pieces.

My son, a resistant writer, entered Mrs. Line's class not having much experience or confidence in writing. At first, he would sit and say, "I don't have anything to write. I can't do this." By the end of the year he was writing essays without needing any help from me, and he appeared to have much more self-confidence. Also, I noticed him using some terms and vocabulary from the class in normal conversation. I was impressed! He learned so much in one year. I could never have taught him even half the amount. I am so thankful for Mrs. Line, her expertise, and her pleasant teaching style.

My teenage son benefited greatly from taking a writing course from Aimee Line. As a former college English instructor, I had taught my son the basics of writing. However, as he entered his high school years, I realized he needed an outside instructor to bring him to a higher level. He needed someone to stretch his creativity, to have him think deeply about literary pieces and to elucidate the tools a writer uses to create excellent essays and research papers. Aimee provided exactly the right challenge for my son. The materials and exercises chosen by Ms. Line, along with her engaging teaching style, helped strengthen my son's critical thinking skills and Christian worldview. He produced work that made him realize he can communicate his ideas well through the medium of writing. I highly recommend Ms. Line and have already signed up my teenage daughter for her next writing class.

My daughter and I were blessed and enriched not only in taking a wonderful writing class with Mrs. Line, but also with the clear, and encouraging guidance in writing college application essays, which I believe helped gain acceptance to each school that my daughter applied to.

From a mother's perspective, I saw my daughter encouraged in her abilities to write, as well as receive clear direction in how to make her writing clearer and impactful to the reader. Aimee has a sweet but confident teaching style which allows a student to not be afraid to ask questions or try something new in their writing content or style, and also really glean and apply the wealth of information that is being communicated to them. I don't think there could be a better English/writing teacher!!

Ms. Aimee Line has tremendously helped my writing skills. Her instruction has made writing so much easier. In just one year I have learned how to write using many of her easily explained tools and techniques. Before her class, I did not know exactly how to put my creative thoughts into words. I used to fear writing papers or essays, but, thanks to Ms. Line, I now enjoy writing and it is no longer a struggle. Thank you, Mrs. Line!

I have so appreciated Mrs. Line's excellent classes and just wish that my older children had been able to participate in them. I've told my youngest daughter that Mrs. Line's might be the best writing/literature class that she will ever have in her life. I'm thankful for Mrs. Line's commitment and how she is doing so much to build truth into the lives of our kids.
